ARTinTRA is proud to present PARAMETRONOMICON: a fascinating, site-specific, computer-animated video and sound installation by the internationally acclaimed Finnish duo Pink Twins.

In the evocative Chapel of the House of St Barnabas the constructed forms of PARAMETRONOMICON, both organic and mechanical, are like cybernetic organisms in a process of perpetual adaptation ruled by multiple, continuously changing set of parameters. These forms lead to a chaotic parametrisation where no single truth exists.

Developed based upon Epistemological theories, PARAMETRONOMICON, resembles a science fiction film which aims to stimulate an immersive visual and psychological experience of perception, cognition and imagination, engaging the public in a diverse dialogue which challenges axioms and belief systems. The animations and their soundtrack set up a psychedelic and thought-provoking experience.

The Finnish duo Pink Twins (Juha and Vesa Vehviläinen) with their abstractive video and maximalist sound installations are creating unique synaesthetic experiences that transverse the dimensions of space and time. Their digitally developed imagery, comprised of abstractive forms and usually bright colours is in perennial motion. The compositions of particles are turning into forms which are in a continuous process of deconstruction and reconstruction creating chaotic spaces that challenge the human perception.

Pink Twins selected exhibitions include: "Moving Image Festival", NYC (2015), "Out Of Our Heads" project, Shoreditch Town Hall, London (2014), "Matters of Time", Frankfurter Kunstverein, Frankfurt (2014), CentroCentro, Madrid (2012), "Thank You for the Music", Museum of Contemporary Art Kiasma, Helsinki (2012), "Repeat All", Centro Cultural Chacao, Caracas (2010), "Arctic Hysteria", P.S.1 MoMA, Queens, NYC (2008).
